Report of the University President – Dr. Nagi Naganathan

- Thanked those that attended the President's address in person and via broadcast.
- He had a good conversation with Sen Ex, Board Chair Jessica Gomez, and Provost Mott regarding the latest issues. Thanked Sen Ex for taking the time to do that.
- He will be heading to Salem this week due to many things going on.
- Higher Education Coordinating Commission (HECC) is in the process of working on strategic planning. First steps have been taken by completing student outreach all over the state. There should be a follow up on March 17.
- Addressed the Senate Bills we are interested in such as the Capital Bill that supports the Boivan project and the legislation to designate us as Oregon's Polytechnic University.
- Explained some of the Bills are hung up due to the stalemate in Salem.
- Boivan Hall project is going to be recommended by the Ways and Means Committee as the number two project in the state. Will likely have the top five projects recommended by HECC. We are sitting at number two and this is good news. We will have to call a special session in order to close by a certain date, but we will get there. The Cap and Trade are causing a stalemate in other legislature matters.
- The Bill to designate us as Oregon's Polytechnic University unanimously passed in the Senate two weeks ago. Other Bills affect student security, student hunger, and other topics.
- Western, Eastern, and Southern Oregon Universities want to offer Professional Doctorate degrees. This is moving through legislation. The request for doctorate degrees have potential to be approved.
- A task force on student success for under representative students in higher education is in motion.
- The University of Oregon has accomplished its first bioengineering degree. Additionally, they are trying to pass data science and a doctorate in physical therapy. Competing STEM programs is beginning to happen. We knew it was coming once they built the Applied Sciences Knight Center. We will continue to advocate for ourselves.
- Dr. Naganathan expressed his appreciation to speak and welcomed any questions.

- Reported on a charge, referred to as, “Seeking clarity on Sabbatical policy” – Discovered various inconsistencies. Looked at requirements versus recommendations and it was not clear what the requirements were. It was unanimous; there should be a separation between faculty and the university during sabbatical.
